To The Folks At DOJ:

This has gone on long enough.
While I appreciate your efforts to reach a fair and equitable settlement for all American businesses and Americans, it is time for action. Settle, and let's move on.

Where is the outcry from DOJ when...

Only 2 meat packers control nearly all of the food supply, here in the US?

Only 3 major confectioners; Hershey, Mars, and Nestle control most chocolate/candy?

Only 1 satellite company will control the entire US satellite TV market?

Only 2 (major) food service distributors for restaurants in the US?

Only 3 companies control air conditioning/furnace (HVAC) manufacturing?

The list goes on and on...

We Americans will not need a DOJ if Alan Greenspan lowers interest rates again.

Heck, the big companies will borrow money (so they can buyout small, competing companies), Americans will lose their jobs, and soon - a handful of companies will control EVERYTHING in America.

Nice picture? Get this settlement over with. You have many more important issues to tackle. Software giants of today, can fall tomorrow. Who thought IBM would be brought to their knees - by Microsoft?

Kindest Regards,
Genie Morrison
